They are still looking for help from anyone that is interested in helping or contributing to the fund raising projects. Councilwoman Fedler had a gentleman from the Town of White Creek contact her and he was willing to donate percentage of product to the Fire Department. It was also mentioned that maybe instead of donations maybe trade donations, or just help and time.

Councilman Skiff mentioned the Solar panel meeting that they attended at the school. He said that it was very involved and if the Town is interested they could have a representative come speak. The Company will install and maintain the solar panels for 20 years. Must sign a 20 year contract. The Town would pay 75% less for electric but would still have to pay Nationalgrid for the line. Councilwoman Fedler asked what the initial cash layout would be. There would be no initial cash layout. The company Monolith would do the maintenance and the town would have to do nothing, except sign the 20 year contract. It was decided that they would have the Monolith come and do the presentation.

driving concrete truck for Collins. He will start two weeks from today which would be April 22nd.

Planning Board Report

Town Clerk Heather Greenawalt reported in Sally Eddy's absence. At the March 14, 2013 meeting six members were present along with approximately 15 people from the public including Supervisor Watkins and Councilman Robin McMurray.

One item of business was addressed. Surveyor Peter Bell spoke to the board on behalf of Lillian & Luther Everly regarding their proposed 25 acre minor subdivision located on Duell Hollow Rd. Mr. Bell asked if the public hearing on the subdivision could be held at the April 4 meeting. The subdivision could be held at the April 4 meeting rather than the May 2 meeting since there is an interested buyer who wants to close by May 1, 2013. The survey will be submitted at April 4 meeting. The subdivision approval process would have to be completed in April so as to have the paper work in place in order to be able to close by the May 1 deadline. The board unanimously approved to move the public hearing up one month to the April 4 meeting to accommodate the Everly's situation. A sketch plan for the 25 acre subdivision was presented and approved by the board at the December 2012 meeting and, since the planning board is already familiar with the property in question, they feel they can fulfill the Everly's request.

John Pedersen, a resident of the Town of Jackson, was invited by the Cambridge planning board to speak at the meeting to share his knowledge and expertise in planning matters. Mr. Pedersen served on the Jackson Planning Board for many years and has been a member of the county planning board for the past five years. For twenty five years he has been attending training seminars in planning provided by the Department of State. He has a college education and owns his own business. Mr. Pedersen spoke on many planning topics and issues and shared some of the situations he has experienced and how they were dealt with. There was opportunity for questions throughout the evening from the public and board members. Chairman Pearson thanked Mr. Pedersen for his willingness to come and share his knowledge and information.

For the April 4, 2013 meeting there were 7 members present and 4 people from the public.

Two items of business were addressed:

1. The public hearing for the Everly's 25 acre subdivision was not held because the interested buyer backed out. There is, now, no necessity to expedite the subdivision process. However, the Everly's have decided to move forward, therefore, the normal procedure for subdivision approval will be followed. The preliminary survey was submitted and approved. A public hearing will be held at the May 2, 2013 meeting.
2. George Murray and His son Michael submitted a sketch plan for a 29 acre subdivision of George Murray's property. Mr. Murray's property consists of a total of 128.0 acres spanning County Rt. 59 and English Rd. The proposed subdivision is located on English Rd. and an adjacent landowner is interested in purchasing it. The sketch plan met planning board approval.

In other matters, the board expressed appreciation concerning the presentation John Pedersen made last month. It was very informative. The board is considering bringing in other speakers at future meetings.

Code Enforcement

none

Communications

Supervisor Watkins introduced Don Schneider Sr. and Jim Moore from Cambridge Valley Machine Shop they employ the most employee's of any business of the Town of Cambridge. Mr. Schneider said that collectively they are the largest employer and that they currently have 145 employees. They are possibly adding on to the current facility. The company started in Cambridge; he grew up in Cambridge and has a huge attachment to the Town. He mentioned that he still owns all the real estate. He would like to keep the company in Cambridge and that is why he is at the meeting. Jim owns the company; Don Schneider Jr. is the manufacturing manager. Mr. Schneider had run the company for 22 years and then sold it. Cambridge Valley Machine just experienced on April 1st 25 years in business.

It was mentioned by the Supervisor about the auction that the NYS OGS (Office of General Services) would be having. They have requested the use of the Town Hall for Wednesday, May 22, 2013 from approximately 10:30 AM to 1:30 PM to hold a real estate auction.

Supervisor mentioned that the insurance policy was not received yet from Dieter Drake for the Tour of the Battenkill which will take place this weekend. It was mentioned that it was possible that maybe the policy would be received later in the week.

Town Clerk Heather Greenawalt read a letter from Don Letizia a concerned resident from the Town. The letter referred to the continued speeding and the unnecessary air brakes by some of the Goulet drivers, along CR 59 and the JCT of Belle Rd. He also mentioned the deterioration that is being brought to the local community by this "recycling" operation is shameful. The Town Clerk informed the public that Don Letizia has recently within the last week put his house up for sale and will be moving by the 20th of this month.

Unfinished Business

The Supervisor said that they would be discussing the Dump Law this evening and the public would be able to voice their opinion. The Dump Law was reviewed line for line and open for discussion at that moment.

Nancy Mabeus mentioned that she had a one page letter that addressed the Dump Law and requested of the Supervisor that she be able to read it when the time was right. Ray Gardinear a resident of the Town asked why they were addressing a dump law at this time and he questioned if the town had a dump law already. The Supervisor said that they have a dump law but it only pertains to burning. The Supervisor says that he has talked to DEC and the concern is that Town of Cambridge has no zoning or Comprehensive Plan. The Supervisor says that if someone tries to bring fracking waste into the Town we have nothing to protect us.

Town Board Meeting
April 8, 2013

Councilman Skiff said originally it had started out with wanting some law to protect against the fracking material being hauled in. He said that in Pennsylvania they are hauling the brine from the fracking material and they are trucking it up to Watertown. He said that now they have found some town on the New York and Pennsylvania border.

The public is questioning why the dump law is so involved when they thought all that was needed was a one page law. Councilwoman Fedler said that it was mentioned at last August 2012 Special Meeting that people wanted a dump law to protect the Town. She said that the Town Board members looked at some short ones and that was what they were leaning towards. The Town Attorney created a law and he represents the town board and the public. The Town Board has presented this law and she said this can be done two ways: the law can be passed around forever among the board members and they can do the cutting or creating of the law. The other method can be that the Town Board can go over this initial draft of the law with the public piece by piece. This way the public has 100% participation and no one is trying to hide anything from the public.

Councilwoman Fedler started by going over this rough draft of the dump law line for line. The first line Ron Ford asked who determines what looks good as far as "clean, wholesome and attractive" or "aesthetically pleasing". It was suggested that the attractive and the aesthetically pleasing part be taken out. It was agreed that everyone wanted a clean environment with the vital importance on the health, safety and welfare of the inhabitants of the Town of Cambridge.

The glossary of definitions also raised questions, especially the term brine which could be used in relation to pickling. Councilman Skiff mentioned that "brine" in this case was in relation to fracking by-product. Some residents of the Town also voiced concern that the law could possibly restrict the property owner's rights to generate their own trash, compost piles and other waste. It was suggested by many that they be specific in regards to commercial dumps.

Many also said that the section of the law under exceptions restricted the farmer's rights. Resident Rani Bass said that this section would not allow farmers to spread manure on their own fields. Don Schneider Sr. former owner of Cambridge Valley Machine was present at the meeting with Jim Moore. They voiced their concerns. They mentioned that they were already subject to numerous state and government regulations however not every business would follow the law. Ashleigh Morris a resident suggested that the law as written has moved away from the original intent. She mentioned that it was never meant to restrict business it was only meant to apply to commercial dump business. The Town Attorney Scott Keller said that the law was meant to determine which types of business would be undesirable for the Town of Cambridge. Business owners could be required to come before the board for permission. This brought up further discussion whether or not residents would be considered commercial if they were to sell eggs on the roadside or firewood. It was decided that the Town Attorney would take the suggestions and construct the 2nd draft of the dump law and will try to have it available to the public for the May meeting.

April 8, 2013

The Town of Cambridge will have the Town wide Clean up day on April 20th and 21st. The bags will be available at the Town of Cambridge Highway Garage. The Highway Department will do roadside pickup on the following Monday.

Nancy Mabeus a resident of the Town read a letter for the record about the dump law and the Old Comprehensive Plan.

Dave Craig a resident of the Town gave the Town Board a resolution that he would like to see the Town Board pass. The resolution is against Regional Sustainability and the Agenda 21. The board chose to look over the resolution and make a decision later.

There being no further business before the Board, the meeting was moved and carried to adjournment at 9:35 PM.

Respectfully yours,

Heather Greenawalt
Town Clerk/Town of Cambridge
